OUR 77TH YEAR NO. 2

Long-awaited lawsuit filed against freeway

By DAVID LELAND

IT WILL now be up to a federal judge to decide whether the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway would provide a panacea for Highway 1 traffic woes, or if the project merely represents further denigration of the peninsula's environment.

On Jan. 2, a consortium of the City of Carmel, Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District and Hatton Canyon Coalition, filed a lawsuit in San Jose which asks that Caltrans' Final Environmental Impact Report be set aside as incomplete.

"What we are asking is that the responsible public officials and agencies make their decisions upon the facts — the real facts — and not the imagined assumptions now being used to justify their project," said Carmel Mayor Jean Grace, referring to Caltrans engineers. "The FEIS is inadequate. We now request, through the court, that it be researched and rewritten."

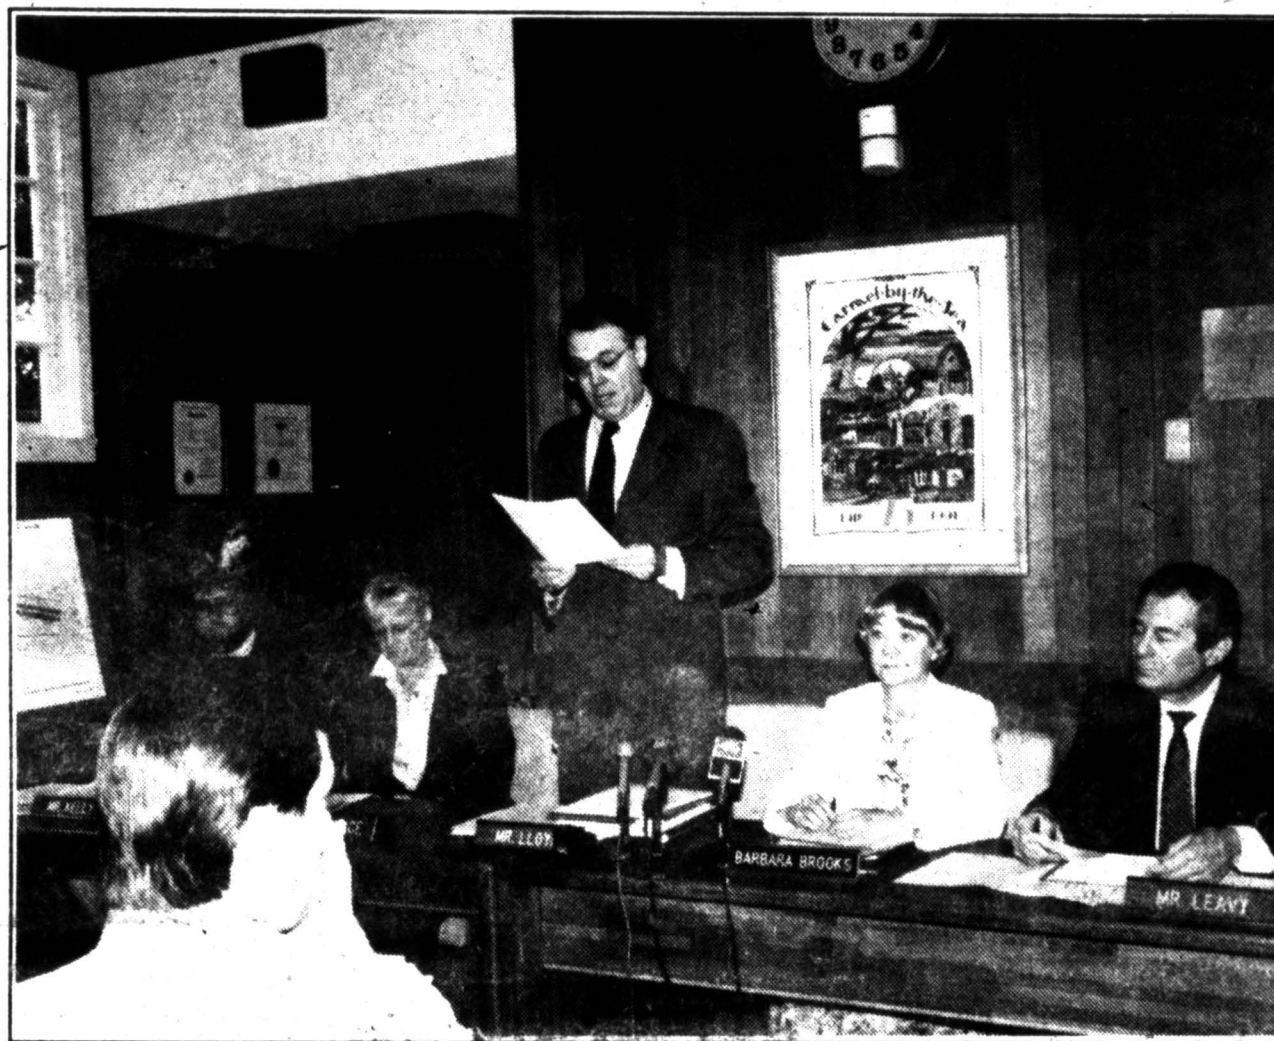

Filed against both the U.S. Department of Transportation and state transportation agencies, the lawsuit alleges:

- The FEIS misrepresents the purpose and need for the freeway project, which would span 3.1 miles between Carpenter Street and the Carmel River.

Although the only state justification for the project appears to be the achievement of a traffic level of service for the freeway during peak periods, the county's transportation agencies, however, have not established such a traffic level requirement.

- The FEIS fails to analyze adequately the adverse environmental impacts of the project, and fails to support with evidence its conclusions that various impacts will be insignificant.

Some of the impacts inadequately analyzed include traffic, noise, biological resources, air quality and growth inducement.

- The FEIS fails to analyze a reasonable range of project alternatives.

- The FEIS assumes that various mitigation measures will adequately mitigate the project's adverse environmental impacts when the evidence indicates that such measures may be infeasible.

Since the draft EIS was issued in 1986, the proposed project has changed significantly, there have been significant changes in the surrounding circumstances and new information has emerged concerning impacts of the project.

The lawsuit indicates that state and federal law require that changes be analyzed in a revised draft EIS and that the revised EIS be circulated for public comment.

While the final FEIS received approval from the state Transportation Commission last month, the suit asks that no construction permits be issued and that the plaintiffs be reimbursed for court costs.

However, Hatton Coalition Co-Chairman Skip Lloyd said that the lawsuit does not necessarily mark a death knell for the canyon road.

"It seems pretty absurd to spend $35 million or more on three miles of freeway that goes nowhere except to funnel traffic into a two-lane road at the Carmel River. To destroy Hatton Canyon and its ecosystem would be to destroy the very values which draw people to this area."

Zad Leavy

"This action will not necessarily kill Caltrans' Hatton Canyon Freeway," he said of the $34 million project. "However, it now is known that an impartial and complete analysis of the numerous and, in some instances, irreparable adverse environmental impacts, coupled with a true exposition of the proper purpose of this highway improvement project, would be likely to call the proposed ...freeway project into serious question, if not document fatal flaws."

Zad Leavy, president of the park district, fumed at the thought of a freeway through Hatton Canyon.

"It seems pretty absurd to spend $35 million or more on three miles of freeway that goes nowhere except to funnel traffic into a two-lane road at the Carmel River when other alternatives exist," he said. "To destroy Hatton Canyon and its ecosystem would be to destroy the very values which draw people to this area, both residents and tourists, alike."

Michael Kelly, a member of the Sierra Club's executive committee, said he believes that providing for increased mass transportation would lessen the need for a super freeway.

"It was unconscionable for Caltrans to have ignored mass transportation altogether," he said. "Certainly a credible study would weigh the growing threat of global warming, the alarming rapid depletion of our oil reserves, and measurements made by the Air Pollution Control District that show that autos are responsible for over one-quarter of the nitric oxide pollutants in our country."

Lloyd said the lawsuit, if it goes to trial, could cost at least $75,000.

Thus far, the city and park district have anted up $10,000 each, while the Sierra Club has paid $15,000 toward the cause, while the Coalition is currently soliciting funds, Lloyd said.

P.B. plan yanked from Coastal Commission's grasp

By JOHN DETRO

CALIFORNIA COASTAL Commission had planned to consider on Tuesday the proposed private country club at Pebble Beach. When panelists gather at Marina Del Rey, that agenda item shan't jell.

Why not? At this point, the plan of Pebble Beach owner Minoru Isutani simply doesn't exist in an official sense.

"I'm sure there will be other rounds," commission staff lawyer Diane Landry said Wednesday. "But this round's very apparently over."

Her comment followed a flurry of proposal-centered activity which left Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman looking rather clairvoyant.

When the county board approved the plan last summer, hers was the only dissenting voice — and she has suggested ever since that Pebble Beach seek an amendment to the county's Local Coastal Program for Del Monte Forest so there would be public hearings on impacts.

Monday, Strasser Kauffman said during a telephone conversation: "I would recommend that the board and company rescind the plan that was given the go-ahead. That, in my opinion, never was the proper legal route. It's my hope that the company would act to clear the air and start again with a brand new (LCP amendment) effort."

Tuesday, word hit regional media that Pebble Beach Company President Tom Oliver indeed had asked the Board of Supervisors to toss out the old pact. Oliver said he recommended the request to Isutani and received full support. "The controversy has created a climate in which a rational assessment of the merits of our program at Pebble Beach has become impossible," Oliver's letter said. Published reports quoted him as saying later on that Isutani wished "positive relations" with the community.

Also Tuesday, Supervisors met behind closed doors and voted unanimously to deep six the membership outline. Pebble Beach representatives already had begun preliminary talks with Coastal Commission and county staffers regarding the LCP amendment.

Isutani bought Pebble Beach facilities for $830 million in September 1990. He needed private club membership sales to help pay off loans. These have been restructured to give him more payback time.

Isutani said just last week that his tactics may well have been too pushy. The Tokyo-based golf tycoon apologized to locals and added that he desired "a clean slate." He reportedly will come here for U.S. Open golf championship play in June.

"I'm relieved that everything has been straightened out," Strasser Kauffman said Wednesday. "It's important to set a good example for other (land use) applicants."

School wishes

Dear Editor:

My wishes for 1992—open schools on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon for those students who need extra help in social studies. Also, teach history and geography and have open book tests.

Less oral expression. Teach public speaking in one or two English periods a month in place of GATE. Teach more art in elementary, junior high and high school.

My wishes are sincere because my grandson is now attending a private school.

Money still talks

Dear Editor:

I was one of the original Carmel artisans. I did pottery for 18 years and Paul Laub bought everything I made. He merchandised original arts and crafts out of a store in Pacific Grove called the Mont-Grove Craft Guild in the 1970s and continued that service in Carmel.

People came to Carmel to enjoy and buy creations by local artists and craftsmen—he's not a stranger and I can't believe how he is being picked on for the most ridiculous reasons.

He's been innovative, a great business man and he's never sold "junk" like some other shops do. He's maintained quality—representing Carmel with his popular shops—Paul Laub is very much integrated into the Carmel lifestyle much more so than the "L.A. types" that have infected our town, but I guess "money talks."

Appreciates Detro

Dear Editor:

Just a note to let you know how much I appreciate John Detro's column each week. (Jazz Tides)

His personal insight into the unique music scene of the Monterey Peninsula shows a deep respect for the musicians and music promoters who contribute so much to our enjoyment here.

I feel very fortunate to be part of a musical community where so many talented people are willing to perform (often just for the love of it). We need more of it in Carmel!

John does more than keep us informed—he goes beneath the surface and invites us to share his love of jazz, past and present.

Also, enjoyed the recent profile on Bruni Sablan that John made so intimate and interesting. Thank you.

Lost walking stick

Dear Editor:

While attending the Christmas festivities at Devendorf Park I left behind my trusty walking stick. It is bamboo, cut from bamboo on my own property and has accompanied my on many a hike, long and short.

I'm sure it helped me find my way out of the Sierras 20 years ago when I became lost and had to spend a cold night in the woods. There is just sentimental value, but I was very attached to it...I've tried the police department and looked thoroughly in the bushes without success.

Perhaps some young person took it home and wouldn't mind returning it.

Smooth sailing

Dear Editor:

We have been property owners in Carmel since 1975, although not using the property personally until 1986.

There was some remodeling that we wished to accomplish, but had approached with significant trepidations based on our understanding of the Carmel planning and inspection process, and our concerns about dealing with contractors.

Fortunately, neither concern proved valid. The planning and permit process, through the City of Carmel, proceeded smoothly and expeditiously. After reviewing, on an informal basis prior to submission, some thoughts as to what we wanted to do, the planning staff provided some suggestions and alternatives, all of which worked out to result in a better project than we had initially contemplated. When the final plans were actually completed and submitted, approval was granted within three weeks, which was much sooner than anyone had anticipated.

We have now completed the project with final inspection, and I only have the highest praise for the City of Carmel's Planning and Building staff.

I would also like to commend our contractor, Mark Watson, for his assistance in planning and performing the work. The level of quality was beyond our expectations, and we felt an excellent cooperative working relationship with his organization. Even some difficulty with one subcontractor does not take away from our satisfaction with the performance of Mark Watson and his company.

All in all, a project that we had approached with significant reservations as a result of our preconceptions concerning the Carmel City Hall and contractors, proved absolutely groundless, and the project went smoothly in both aspects. We think that your readers might be interested in a positive experience.

Lost Perspective

(Editor's Note: We inadvertently left out one of the responses we received for our annual "Perspectives on 1992" compilation last week. We regret the omission. Here it is in its entirety.)

MICHAEL ZAMBORY
GENERAL MANAGER
CARMEL AREA
WASTEWATER DISTRICT

DURING THE past three years a number of agreements were negotiated between the Carmel Area Wastewater District, Pebble Beach Community Services District, Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and the Pebble Beach Company. These agreements eventually culminated in the CAWD/PBCSD Wastewater Reclamation Project which is presently under design by Engineering Science, Inc. under contract to the Carmel Area Wastewater District. The year 1992 will see completion of the design of the 1.8 million gallon per day wastewater reclamation facility to be located on the grounds of the existing CAWD wastewater treatment plant on the south bank of the Carmel River one quarter mile westerly of the State Route One bridge. In addition to the reclamation facility there is a design for a seven mile long reclaimed water transmission pipeline which will transport the reclaimed water from the treatment facility to seven golf courses and other open-space areas all within the Del Monte Forest. The sixteen inch diameter pipeline will feed water to a 2.5 million gallon reclaimed water storage tank to be constructed on property owned by the Poppy Hills Golf Course. From there the reclaimed water will gravity to the various users. At the time of this writing the reclaimed water transmission pipeline and the 2.5 MG reclaimed water storage tank are at 65% of total design.

Construction of the CAWD/PBCSD Wastewater Reclamation Project is scheduled to begin Sept. 15, 1992. It will take eighteen months to construct the entire project. Reclaimed water should reach the seven Pebble Beach Golf Courses during April of 1994. At that time approximately 1,000 acre feet of displaced potable water will become available for domestic use which previously had been used to irrigate golf courses. Whether that water will be allocated or placed in drought reserve is a policy decision which will have to be made by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District. In any event 380 acre feet will be allocated to the Pebble Beach Company in exchange for their having financed the entire project estimated to cost fifteen million dollars. The CAWD/PBCSD Wastewater Reclamation Project is the third such attempt at reclaiming wastewater here in the Carmel/Pebble Beach area during the past 12 years. Those that have been involved since 1979 will certainly have earned their glass of champagne when the first reclaimed water flows through the pipeline April, 1994.

Supes delay Monastery Beach parking decision

By SUSAN BECK

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to request the California Coastal Commission delay any decision on the controversial parking dilemma at Monastery Beach.

At the Tuesday, Jan. 7 public hearing on Monastery Beach Parking there was standing room only and full support from the audience for the Carmel Parking Alternative Plan presented by Molly Erickson, Code Enforcement Officer for the Carmel Planning Department.

Carmel's off shoulder parking plan is a response to two years of public dismay over the proposed plan by the California State Parks and Recreation Department's proposal to build a parking lot behind the Bay School between Highway 1 and the beach area.

Despite Carmel's proposal that Erickson said, "reflected the input of the community," the board of supervisors maintained that more time is necessary to consider amending the Carmel Area Local Coastal Plan (LCP), which will facilitate implementation of off shoulder parking. The delay could be a year or more.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman said that the current language of the LCP clearly states that the California Parks and Recreation Department design a plan to get vehicles off the street.

She said that arguments over parking at Monastery Beach have been going on for about 15 years.

"This isn't a new issue. The most important thing is to find a solution that will provide safety, and secondly, will clean up the view shed," said Strasser Kauffman.

She said that Carmel's plan merits consideration, but there is some indication that Caltrans will not approve it as it is. "I would like see Caltrans get more involved, however I think we are moving in the right direction. I prefer working with help from the public, even if it takes more time to pursue a plan that will best preserve the world class view of Monastery Beach, which we all cherish," said Strasser Kauffman.

The proposed state plan would necessitate the removal of a portion of the 150-year-old eucalyptus trees on the north end of Monastery Beach that surround Bay School and three residences.

Erickson said, "Our plan will cause no damage to the eucalyptus grove near Bay School, and there will be no open space or environmental loss."

Carmel's plan requires that all parking go in one direction, south, on the west side of the highway. There would be no left turn to the beach for northbound traffic.

Erickson pointed out that Caltrans has not found sufficient evidence of vehicle accidents caused by shoulder parking at the beach to warrant a paved parking lot. She said that most of the accidents were east bound, not west bound.

The plan allows for 62 cars to park at the beach at one time. Each space is 22 feet in length, allowing for any size vehicle. In addition, there will be five access routes to the beach with a footpath for pedestrian traffic, which will include a bridge. Scuba divers can use the path for changing rather than the current practice of doing so on the shoulder of the highway, and warning signs about the hazards of the area will be posted all along the path.

A public transit bus pullout is included in the plan, along with a optional 20 car parking overflow at the south end of the beach adjacent to Point Lobos State Reserve.

Carmel's plan will cost about $60,000 while the expenditure for the state plan has been estimated at $800,000 to $1.2 million.

Bud Whisler spoke for his wife and sister who together own the three cottages at the beach, which were built in 1869.

"We have been very good custodians in preserving the land around the property, and we strongly support the Save Monastery Beach Coalition and the Carmel plan," said Whisler.

Tom Beardsley, a Bay School parent, said that more than 4,000 signatures have been documented to support the coalition and Carmel plan. He said that the signatures represented every socioeconomic group and have come from all over California.

"I am in favor of a continuance on the matter until later in the year for all due process to take its course," said Beardsley.

The state plan was initiated in November 1989, and the Monterey County Planning Commission rejected the plan in January 1991 after a wave of steady opposition from the public made it clear it was not acceptable. The board of supervisors agreed with the commission's decision in April.

The Coastal Commission requested more public hearings, and Tuesday's meeting was the second of its kind. Several other meeting concerning Monastery Beach have been held under the chairmanship of State Assemblyman Sam Farr, D-Carmel.

CUSD Supt. Vance Baldwin said that he was opposed to any facility that effects the Bay School, and administratively supports the postponement of the proposals for parking at the beach.

"I believe a parking lot behind the school would be the demise of the area," said Baldwin.

He agreed that there were some safety advantages with the state plan, but the decision to remove the eucalyptus grove near the school for a few safety factors would be negative.

Strasser Kauffman said that the Carmel plan is worth pursuing providing it creates safe access and eliminates the visual pollution seen now while driving or walking by Monastery Beach.

Supervisor Strasser Kauffman resumes role as chairperson

By DAVID LELAND

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman this week resumed her post as chairwoman of the board of supervisors, a seat which she last occupied in 1987.

She brings to the position a practical approach, based on a strict interpretation of environmental law and sprinkled with a keen interest in political realities.

"This will be a year of basic decision making," said Strasser Kauffman, who is nearing the end of her second four-year term as area supervisor and plans to seek re-election come June.

Of prime importance to the board this year, she said, is the idea of keeping ample funds available to create environmental studies during a time of continued budget cuts.

"Thorough environmental review cannot be jeopardized; that's a basic quality-of-life service for the Monterey Peninsula," said Strasser Kauffman, adding that county agencies will likely be vying for the scarce resource. "I don't consider environmental review to be a luxury when it comes to budgeting."

As chairwoman, Strasser Kauffman will have the power to formulate the weekly meeting agenda, and to determine how much time each issue should be allotted.

As principal spokesperson for the board, she will also dictate the general style that permeates the chambers.

"The board has a chance to reconsider the way that we run the county," she said, referring to some complaints that the board often runs roughshod over the public during testimony. "I hope to have a more welcoming atmosphere; I will work hard to see that everyone is treated with respect and that key issues move forward in a timely fashion."

Looming before the board for the coming year are key issues such as possibly amending the Del Monte Forest Land Use Plan to allow partial privatization of the Pebble Beach Golf Links and the idea of four-laning a portion of Carmel Valley Road to create smooth traffic flow, Strasser Kauffman said.

But foremost on the supervisor's mind is the idea of carving out a niche for regional planning.

"My No. 1 priority this year is the formal introduction of regional government, especially in the area of land use," she said, adding that she seeks cooperation between local cities and Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties. "All the basic problems can be solved on a regional level."

Strasser Kauffman pointed out that development in seemingly unrelated locales can affect each other.

"We can do the most thorough job, yet be undermined by excess planning in adjacent areas," she said, referring to problems such as air pollution. "Ultimately, we should work closer with other entities."

Already organizing her volunteer force, which numbered 800 workers in the last election, Strasser Kauffman said she has no intentions of attempting to campaign from her chairperson's seat.

"The chairmanship is a liability when it comes to campaigning; it takes me out of the district more than I would like to be," she said, referring to the idea that the chairperson must tend to

Carmel detective destined for high-level FBI classes in spring

By JOHN DETRO

WEEK AFTER week, it's Detective Sgt. Pete Poitras of Carmel Police Department who goes over newsworthy reports with media reps and helps residents know what's happening in local law enforcement.

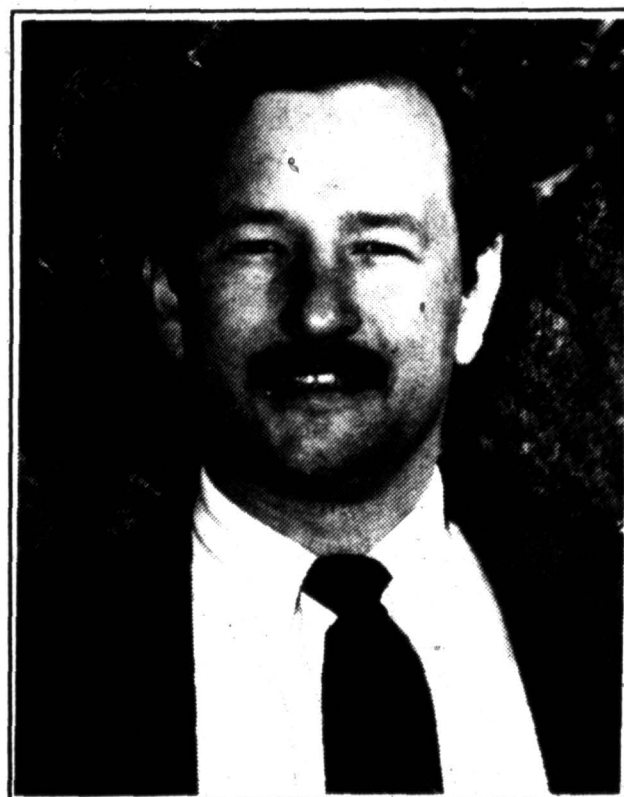

Now, Pete will be learning a whole lot more about how high-level professional lawmen carry out a vast range of duties.

Police Chief Jack McGilvray announces, via a memo to City Administrator Doug Schmitz, that Pete has been selected to attend the FBI National Academy from March 29-June 12. Classes are held at Quantico, Virginia.

"I'm gratified at having been accepted," Pete said Wednesday. "I consider it an honor. Officers apply to the FBI Academy from literally all over the world. The last Carmel policeman to attend was Senior Sgt. Jon Bowman in 1988. Chief McGilvray has been very supportive, approving my application and then backing my hopes with encouragement."

Basically, Pete said during a chat in his office, "you apply and get in line and wait. It's a strong three-month commitment, much like basic training. They're not kidding — if officers show up in poor physical shape, they're sent home. I can earn 19 upper level college units for satisfactory completion of the program. The training's intensive, to say the least, and I'll live in a barracks situation."

Poitras has been with Carmel Police Department for 11 years, serving 10 of those as a detective. He provided the FBI National Academy's stated goal: "To enhance the ability of experienced law enforcement personnel to fulfill their responsibilities within a constitutionally-structured free society."

Background materials said the program aims to "prepare selected law enforcement personnel for leadership roles" by offering instruction in personnel and resource management, direction of organizational operations, understanding related community components to enhance delivery of law enforcement services, analysis and evaluation of organizational efficiency and effectiveness, analysis of trends affecting law enforcement.

Technical and operational skill courses included case management, forensic science, interpersonal communications, training methods, tactics, operations, officer survival techniques.

"It's a challenge, hard work and an honor," Pete stressed. "All at the same time."

matters countywide. "(But) if the rest of the county is in good shape that benefits the people of the 5th District."

Thus far no one has thrown their hat into the ring for the supervisorial seat. Four years ago, Strasser Kauffman ran unchallenged.

The supervisor said she will continue to be an "outspoken" boardmember.

"You need government when times are tough," she said. "The real contribution of an elected official is to set the tone and take an action; I am willing to take unpopular positions."

In truth, Strasser Kauffman appears to thrive on controversy.

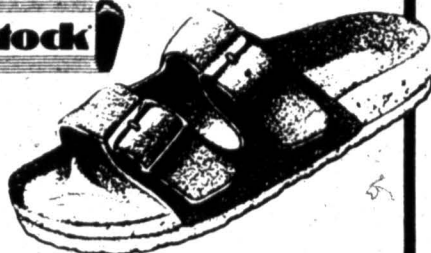

"This community is stimulating," she said. "And that keeps me going."

Water board sets study session for federal-state dam approval

By FRANK GEORGE

At a special session Jan. 13, the water board will consider ideas for mustering up state and federal approval for a new dam on the Carmel River.

Henrietta Stern, senior project coordinator for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, will conduct a workshop on the subject at district headquarters, located at 187 Eldorado St., at 3 p.m. Then, the directors will re-adjoin for an open water board session.

The public is invited to both hearings, and is encouraged to offer comments and feedback at the workshop. Stern said she will present the district's strategy for fine-tuning the dam's EIR/EIS at the early meeting, and the directors will consider a $170,000 consulting plan afterward during the formal hearing.

Much of the funds would go to EIP Associates, an environmental planning firm from San Francisco. Stern said EIP's $100,000 consultation package will help the district prepare a final draft for the EIR/EIS, which would then be ready for re-submission to state and federal regulatory commissions "by late summer."

Stern said the additional $70,000 would go toward district-conducted wildlife surveys and some "more detailed engineering studies."

"It's a very important milestone," Stern stressed. "Because you can't go into your formal decision mode until you have a final EIR/EIS."

The district met with members of the guardian agencies late last year, and 42 different comments on the document's rough draft were received. Among these, issues on growth and local fish and wildlife habitat were most prominent.

Some of the agencies found the district's future development projections too high, Stern said, while others found it too low. The estimates are based on maximum build out by the year 2020, and the numbers will be adjusted to meet the agency's demands.

(Maximum build out occurs when every legal lot of record within a local jurisdiction is developed).

Meanwhile, aside from the district-backed 24,000 acre-foot New Los Padres Dam, nine alternative major water supplies are discussed in the current EIR/EIS. That number will be pared down to five, including the dam, a smaller New Los Padres dam/desalination plant combination, a 7,000 acre-foot desal facility, a medium-sized Canada Reservoir/desal combination and the "no project" alternative.

Details on how each of these facilities would operate will also be worked out for the new document.

Don't dismay: Wet spring called for by weather experts

By DAVID LELAND

THE METEOROLOGIST who last January correctly forecast the March Miracle rains is now predicting above-average precipitation for February and March.

Dr. Art Douglas, head of atmospheric sciences at Creighton University, told The Pine Cone that El Niño conditions have increased to the point of resembling storm patterns similar to 1982-83 and 1972-73.

"The spring in those years was wet," he said, adding that during an El Niño regime, ocean water near the equator heats up which often pushes subtropical storms to the north. "I think it's good news."

Typically, storms during an El Niño year strike in February and March, Douglas said.

"The Christmas rains were a fluke," said Douglas, who previously had forecast a dry winter for California because the El Niño lacked intensity. During a mild El Niño, such as 1987, Central California actually received below-normal rainfall amounts.

Later in the year, Douglas said, the high-pressure ridge that blocks incoming Pacific Storms weakens to the point that it can be pushed into Canada by a "split jet stream" that sends half the storms to British Columbia and half to Southern California.

However, Douglas said high pressure will build in for at least the next two weeks.

"Even though the high-pressure ridge is coming back, it will be short-lived," he said.

Douglas is predicting 110 percent of normal rainfall in Central California, while Southern California may experience as much as 150 percent of normal precipitation.

Currently the peninsula's yearly rainfall total is 7.11 inches, just .25 inches below average.

The National Weather Service's outlook for the remainder of January is for normal rainfall and above-normal temperatures, according to Frank Hughes, meteorologist with the Climate Analysis Center in Washington, D.C.

Hughes, who said his agency will offer a forecast for the remainder of January and mid-February next week, said the current high-pressure system blocking storms should weaken by Jan. 17.

Meanwhile, Douglas' counterpart, Dr. Dan Cayan of Scripps Institute, who also forecast a dry winter, is taking a more cautious attitude concerning the remainder of the winter.

"The jury is still out," he said. "It's too early to tell if it is going to be a wet winter."

Cayan did say that he was encouraged by the eastern Pacific Ocean's ability to toss aside stubborn high-pressure ridges.

"That's a good sign," he said, adding that there are still at least 2 1/2 months left of the rainy season. "There's some reason for optimism."

Ord task force meets Jan. 10 in Monterey

THE FORT Ord Community Task Force will hold another in a series of public meetings on Friday, Jan. 10, in Monterey. Rep. Leon E. Panetta (D-Monterey) announced Jan. 2. The meeting will be held at the Monterey Conference Center, on the third level, in Colton

Rooms I and II. It will begin at 3 p.m. The Task Force, made up of area mayors and other local officials, and its seven advisory groups are working on a consensus strategy for the future to address the economic and other problems created by the closing of Fort Ord. Panetta said that among the items on the meeting agenda will be a presentation by the Task Force's advisory group on the housing issue.

Youth center debugging

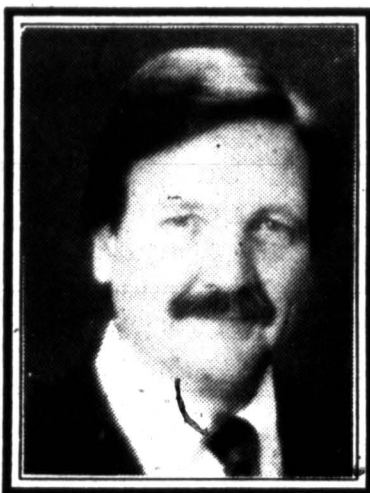

THE CARMEL Youth Center will be closed from Friday, Jan. 17 to Monday, Jan. 20 so it can be fumigated to get rid of termites.

The youth center, located at Fourth and Torres in Carmel, will reopen as usual on Jan. 21.

Bringing out the animal

MARS ENTERS Capricorn on Jan. 9 at 1:47 a.m. It is the planet of sex, action, aggression and anger. It deals with our primitive and animal nature... and in Capricorn it can get frustrated! Mars helps us establish our separate identity. Negatively, it feels it must control everything around it. Adrenalin is released, the rush and the body reacts to the stress that is presented to it. It feels it must defend itself or run away.

Saturn (Capricorn's ruler) brings fear and fear comes from insecurity... and many will fear career changes, except good old Capricorn who hangs in there. They say that tough times don't last, tough people do. Capricorns intend to last! Strong Capricorns have very little desire to compare themselves to others. Motivated by stress they are too busy improving on their own performance.

The weakness of Saturn is fear (False Evidence Appearing Real) which comes from the lack of a solid foundation. It's the whiplash of fate, gives what you deserve and is the karmic garbage collector. At the highest level, it is self-control and at its lowest level, it's suffering. And often, pain is the breaking of the shell that has to crack because it encompasses your understanding.

Only a negative attitude makes the future unmanageable. Many will be putting order and sanity back into their lives between Jan. 9 and Feb. 7... along with stability. From its lesson we learn enduring calm which comes from pure inner strength. Any losses that Saturn brings are of things that you do not want or need in your life. LET THEM GO! Life lessons are learned through the management of obstacles and wisdom comes from suffering. Where are your limits and boundaries? You'll find out after today. What is your truth, your reality? Was it fed to you or is it yours to own?

If you're having a problem with sex and alcohol, it's because thought patterns are negative. First, slow down; don't be too impulsive or rash. There will be a sober slowdown and after what most of us have been through in 1991, it's time to look at our own reality.

Instead of destroying things (Mars negative), be helpful, caring and nurturing. Take care of pets and people (not necessarily in that order. Be paternal (Capricorn). Build something that will last. Be gentle with yourself.

Mars in Capricorn can help give you a lot of colds, the flu and tell you that it's time to see your dentist, or if you're constipated, it's time to see Rose Kamin (373-5979) for a colonic. She recently moved into the area and is here locally in Monterey.

More people have complaints about arthritis, and rheumatism during this time. Yes, you can become gloomy, depressed, gripe and complain about everything, especially your career, which by the way represents a father authority figure. If you lack discipline, are stingy, disorganized, or over-organized.

Love is the cure for Mars in Capricorn. Mentally program your self each day and night to be cheerful (attitude is everything) and stop being negative and seeing the dark side of everything, especially your career. Everyone is sick to death of hearing you complain anyway. You are draining your own energy with all your negativity, that's why you're so tired. You are carrying everyone else's burdens around.

Ever walk around in lead shoes? Reminds me of the first time I ever went skiing and put on ski boots—they felt like lead shoes. I couldn't understand how I was going to master a mountain, let alone have a good time and live to talk about it. Well, I did. The first time I went skiing, I went on the expert slope (unknown to me at the time). There were less people and I'm impatient. Then there's the Billy Bathgate movie where Bruce Willis' feet were cast in cement by Dustin Hoffman before he tossed Bruce off a boat. That's Saturn (I might add, Dustin has the Moon in Capricorn) and that's Mars in Capricorn in its most negative state.

Do happy things, get out and socialize more. Read and watch your cats chase each other around. Go to Disneyland, be a kid again. Don't tell each other, "I feel old." When people ask you how you feel, don't point to where it hurts. Say, "terrific," then watch your body language change. Stop the worrying, Saturn and Capricorn love to create fear and anxiety. It's their job. Negativity will vanish when you discover that you are your own worst enemy.

Have a manicure, get your hair ironed, take a bubble bath, get a pedicure and a massage. Be loving, kind, graceful, sweet and charming. People never hung around Scrooge for very long, but Doris Day was always a joy to be around! Keep busy and if you still get depressed, it's because you are focusing much too much attention on yourself. Take Vitamin C, E, lots of calcium, B-1 and drive or fly to the nearest sunshine (vitamin D).

Get outdoors and do earthy things, like making love!

R.W. (male) Palo Alto, born 9-25-38

Q. Formerly a Carmel resident, I'd like to return. Is it likely?

CH: Palo Alto is nice. How come you don't like it there? The Stanford Mall is great! No? Well, if you want to return to Carmel, then return. What's stopping you? Why did you leave? Carmel as we know is Scorpio, your Venus is in Scorpio, you belong where you love it. You like exotic experiences. Palo Alto is a lot of things, but exotic it is not. Now Carmel, she's exotic. Eventually its emotional force will pull you back; its Moon in Capricorn layers itself nice and cozy between your Mars, Mercury, Uranus and Neptune all in earth signs and nobody does it better, so come on back R.W., we want you back. Register to vote.

We've got lots of things to do together, we need you!

A.J. (female) Carmel, born 9-10-34

Q. We are thinking of selling part of our business. Is it a good idea? And will I ever see my eldest daughter happy and married?

CH: Who is We? When is his/her birthday? What kind of business is it? Service-oriented businesses will prosper. You will be making a rather large career change, but I don't see that coming until 1993 when you will be having your second Saturn return, signalling a change in responsibility. Perhaps selling part now and the other part in 1993? Do you still want to set the world on fire or do you prefer to mellow out, as in retirement? The Third Saturn Return will happen when you're 84. I don't know when your eldest daughter was born, so can't answer that one.

Cold weather tips

IF YOUR dog or cat could talk, they might be saying, "Please don't let me freeze!" Your pets depend on you more than usual this time of year so protect them from the cold and other wintertime dangers. Here are a few tips:

You need a coat in winter and so may your dog if it is very young, very old or is not used to the cold. The coat or sweater should cover the dog's back as well as its chest.

Keeping warm means eating more. Feed your outdoor pets more food in the winter and make sure their water doesn't freeze.

Wet fur is not warm fur! Towel dry your pet right away if it gets wet. Don't bathe pets in cold weather.

Pet beds placed on floors are often chilly. Raise them off the floor a few inches and keep them away from doors and windows.

An active animal is healthier and happier. Exercise and play with your pet a lot!

WE GET LETTERS

Q. I've learned so much by reading your columns this past year! In fact, I've decided to bring my "outdoor" dog, Sparky, indoors because I realize he really is a member of my family. The problem is my 3-year old. He tends to play rough with Sparky and I've always felt he was safer outside! How should I handle this?

A. I applaud your decision to bring Sparky indoors.

that's where he belongs! As for your toddler, he needs to be taught to respect animals and you're the one who has to teach him.

Let him know that there are appropriate ways to play — by throwing a ball or tugging at a pull-toy, not by chasing or terrorizing Sparky. If Sparky is obedient on a leash, your child can take walks with you and learn to handle Sparky. Be sure to use a harness, not a choke chain! He can help you prepare Sparky's meals and feed him and he can learn to watch Sparky eat from a "safe" distance. Involve your child in Sparky's daily care to teach him respect and kindness toward his Best Friend.

Q. After reading your column about the dangers of cats being outdoors, I decided my Freddy should stay inside. I started by letting him out just 2 hours a day, then bringing him in. But he isn't adjusting well to this new restriction. Do you have any suggestions?

A. By allowing him outside, even for short periods, you are rewarding him for showing his desire to go out. Do not allow him out at all! Ignore him completely when he asks to go out. If you can be strong for a few days, he will probably stop the asking-to-go-out behavior. All of mine live in and they all came to me as outdoor cats. They never show a sign that they would rather be outdoors, so hang in there!

That's all for this time. See you next week.

The heartbeat of Carmel

WHERE DO the locals go to mix and mingle in Carmel? Now that the Mission Ranch is closed for remodeling Saturday nights are pretty dead. But day to day, year in and year out the Harrison Memorial Library keeps a light in the window for locals in a time when it's hard for anyone to find the elusive, real Carmel.

We all have childhood memories of our first library. Footsteps echoing on polished floors and librarians with pinched faces shushing us with their eyes.

Not so in Carmel. This library is the soul of the community. Starting with Maggie Manheim's warm welcome at the front desk, continuing on to a favorite corner in the main reading room or up in the stacks, the Carmel library is a home away from home for many locals, and visitors too.

Bibliophiles cite the early California art, the French novels tucked away on a shelf behind the statue of Father Serra, the fireplace, the easily accessible collection of art books or the helpful staff as just a few of the reasons why they love their library.

The board of directors of the Carmel Public Library Foundation recently held a "New Year's Salute" to honor donors who have contributed funds to the library during the past year. Budget cuts jeopardized library acquisitions and the community responded with $40,000, nearly twice the amount contributed last year. Some donations were specific.

The local history room at the Park branch will be dedicated to Henry Meade Williams as part of a generous donation by Lacy Williams Buck, his daughter, and her husband, Bob Buck. Roberta and Hilton Bialek gave money for opera video tapes in the name of library staffer Maggie Manheim, who loves opera.

For a quick pick-me-up of real Carmel, whether you're a newcomer or oldtimer, stop by the Harrison Memorial Library at Ocean and Lincoln and enjoy some of the recent additions made possible by generous donors. For a glimpse into old Carmel visit the local history room at the Park Branch, located at Mission and Sixth, next door to the former Carmel taxi company.

HYPE PARADE

This year's Monterey March of Dimes "Gourmet Gala" scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 18 is like the story of the Emperor's new clothes; all hype, no substance. Founded in 1976 as a food festival to celebrate the nation's bicentennial, the original "Gourmet Gala" event presented well-known celebrities preparing and serving their own recipes in designer kitchens as they were judged by equally well-known celebrity chefs.

The idea, which originated on the east coast, was immensely successful and repeated by March Dimes chapters across the country.

On the Monterey Peninsula celebrities such as Clint Eastwood, Craig Claiborne and Brooke Shields have participated in past years.

Sorry to say, today's "Gourmet Gala" has neither true celebrity chefs nor judges, not even an authentic cooking competition. This year's group of stars could stump the panel on What's My Line: Ruth Buzzi, her husband Kent Perkins, Elinor Donahue, Ilene Graff and Jon Beekhuis.

It's not that there's a lack of celebrities to choose from right here on the peninsula. Local attention-getters abound, but it seems the celebrity screening committee for the "Gourmet Gala" has stringent criteria. Participating personages must be WASPS, heterosexual, Republican, born again and non-bohemian. Takes all the fun out of it.

The original concept had the celebrity chefs bringing their personal recipes to the party, but is it still a contest when the cooking committee provides the recipes to chefs who can't come up with their own? The theme this year is "Vineyard Vignettes." Good idea, but why aren't any of our local wineries participating?

The list of local "celebrities" is a sham. The "Gourmet Gala" committee underestimates its audience when it puts a $150 ticket price on an event that hypes TV announcers and local businessmen as celebrities. Perhaps the "Gourmet Gala" committee should do a "pre" rather than "post" event critique and take a hard look at its program.

As an alternative to the hype parade of the "Gourmet Gala" try the pre-event "March of Dimes, Gourmet Gala First Annual Booksigning, Tea & Home Tour" scheduled for Friday, Jan. 17 at the old Gallatin Powers estate, now the home of Steve and Dolores Gunia.

Tickets are $10 and include lunch which will be provided by Bindel's Restaurant (formerly Gallatin's), a house tour and an opportunity to meet five cookbook authors who will be on hand to share recipes and sign their books. For more information or directions to the Gunia home, call the March of Dimes at 373-8482.

PEEPS

Gloria Dake, local amateur chef, has a tip for anyone trying to decide which events to attend at this year's "Masters of Food & Wine" at Highlands Inn. She says don't miss Italian chef Giuliano Bugialli's cooking demonstration and luncheon on Wednesday, Feb. 26. Gloria has a hunch Bugialli will cook and run and won't stick around for any of the week's other activities. He's one of the most popular Italian cooking teachers in the United States and is known for his updates of centuries-old recipes and knowledge of Italian cooking traditions and lore. Call Highlands Inn at 624-3801 for reservations.

Forty is a big birthday. It can be scary or exciting but in the case of Cachagua real estate broker Salvatore Rombi it was stunning. He arrived at his sister's house on Cachagua creek for a quiet dinner (his birthday was still a week away), but opened the door to find a score of friends and relatives all yelling "Surprise!" at the top of their lungs. Rombi, who prides himself on his quick quips and easy humor, was stunned nearly speechless for a full 60 minutes as he walked around the room hugging friends and blowing kisses to relatives.

If you missed Rita Coolidge at last year's "Rhinstone Roundup" presented by Lifesavers, The Committee, you can catch her at this year's "Hollywood Spectacular" on Saturday, Feb. 22. You're invited to come as your favorite movie or TV star, or in Hollywood glitz. To recycle last year's cowboy glitz into Hollywood glitz, just cut off the fringe.

The Monterey County Symphony will honor the late Rear Adm. E.J. O'Donnell, former Symphony board president (1976 - 1980) whose passing is a loss felt by all who knew him. Mrs. Thomas McCullough, Monterey County Symphony Association President, announced the Jan. 19, 20 and 21 performances will dedicated to Admiral O'Donnell, whose leadership put the symphony on its feet financially and who attracted many of today's current patrons. For more information on the programs call 624-8511.

Barbara May, head concierge at The Lodge at Pebble Beach, faxed us to say she was thrilled to see her picture in last week's issue but offered a correction that should be noted. There are no concierges on the Monterey Peninsula who belong to the prestigious Clef d'Or but there are numerous members in the state, rather than none as was reported here. Among the hotels May listed where you can find a concierge with gold keys on his or her lapel are; the Awahnee Hotel in Yosemite, the Huntington Hotel, Four Seasons Clift, Mandarin Oriental, Mark Hopkins, Prescott, Ritz Carlton, Stanford Court, Tuscan Inn and Westin St. Francis in San Francisco and Meadowood Resort and Silverado Country Club in the Napa Valley. Come on, you local concierge, get with the program.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

— It was the Monday after Christmas about 6 p.m. Monterey Peninsula day trippers were stuck in bumper-to-bumper traffic headed north on Highway 1; red tail lights all the way from the Monterey Beach Hotel in Seaside as far north as the eye could see.

— Earlier that same day. So many people showed up for lunch at Bud's Pub in Carmel the kitchen ran out of clean forks by 1 p.m.

Could this mean the recession is over? Pass it on.

Carmel Valley youth center renewed by spring

THE CARMEL Valley Community Youth Center is steam rolling ahead to bring the community a refurbished building plus beautiful additions by springtime.

Recently completed is a new 600 sq. ft. patio complete with overhead trellis for shade. The new area will be a welcome addition for the hot and sunny summertime festivities at the community center.

The Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, a non-profit organization established in 1954, has been long overdue for a remodel. According to board member and longtime volunteer, Tony Glanville, "the purpose of the buildings is to wear them out and we have succeeded!" The community is growing at a rapid rate and the use of the center has increased greatly over the past few years. Over 45 percent of Middle School children and 40 percent of high school students live in Carmel Valley. The number of elementary school children is increasing so quickly that they are outgrowing Tularcitos.

The community center is used exclusively on weekdays by the Carmel Unified School District's Latchkey Program. Children of working parents, mostly single, are enrolled for before and after school care. They arrive as early as 7 a.m. and are picked up as late as 6 p.m. There are, at present, about 65 children who use the center each day on a regular basis.

The center is used on weeknights for exercise classes, yoga, and Alcoholics Anonymous meetings. Weekends are booked far in advance for weddings, family reunions, company picnics, and parties by residents of the entire Monterey County.

Plans for the remodeling consist of expanding the easterly wall out 10 feet to accommodate larger storage facilities, refurbishing the kitchen, and remodeling the bathroom. The community center is raising the funds for this project through grants and private donations.

Cost of the project is $78,810. To date, the center has managed to raise 46 percent of the needed revenue. The community center would like to thank and applaud the generous gifts to support this project from the following organizations and individuals: AT&T Golf Foundation, The Harden Foundation, Monterey County, Lauralie Irvine Foundation, the Upjohn Foundation, Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services, Inc., The Marta Bennett Foundation, Mr. Willard Branson, First National Bank, Robert Talbott, Inc., Mary Lou Berta, Carmel Valley Ranchers Days, Elmer and Laura Machado, and Mrs. Winifred Chrisman.

The community is grateful beyond words to these people.

If you would like to be a part of the core group who is making this magic happen, please do not hesitate to call me at 659-3983 or send your donations to CVCYC, P.O. Box 124, Carmel Valley, 93924. The community is invited and welcome to come view this work in progress which will benefit not only Carmel Valley, but the entire Monterey Peninsula as well.

Sam and Happy, a love story

THE CALIFORNIA Horse Adoption, Protection Society (CHAPS) is offering a chance to sponsor a horse for only $10 a year.

Many people still prefer to become members of the organization or send a tax-deductible contribution, however, sponsoring the maintenance of one or more individual animals is fast becoming a popular way to take care of abandoned horses.

There are numerous horses who are considered unsuitable for adoption because of their age, frailty, previous injury or mistreatment. These animals remain permanent boarders of CHAPS, and the annual fee provided by the sponsor helps to keep them in a comfortable, safe environment.

Sponsors receive a 'signed' original photograph of the animal, an initial letter introduction, and then two letters each year from your sponsored animal, giving an update on their life and activities.

Two animals available for sponsorship are Sam and Happy.

Sam, a gorgeous 16.2 hh thoroughbred has become the CHAPS mascot as his story relates the organization's purpose best.

He is only 4-years-old, but has suffered more than most horses do in a lifetime. Raised for the race track, Sam was too kind and gentle to run and so was sold at auction.

He was bought by a "killer buyer" destined to go on the terrible four-day journey to be slaughtered in Texas to provide meat for human consumption on the tables of Europe and Japan.

However, Sam was kicked in the shoulder and was so disabled that he could not get to his feet to be put on the truck. He was found lying in 110 degree heat, too debilitated to reach food and water.

CHAPS bought Sam so that he could be put out of his misery, but his spirit was so strong that he was given a few weeks, which became months.

Although he now leads an active life, free with his friends on 80 acres in Santa Cruz, his bone is still extremely weak and he will probably never be able to be ridden.

Happy was being sold at auction, also destined for slaughter in Texas, because at 16 months of age he had outgrown his 'cuteness' at a petting zoo, and was being dumped in favor of a younger animal.

CHAPS bought Happy, and now he lives in a permanent foster home in Carmel Valley receiving all the TLC that has become so important to him.

Help Sam and Happy by becoming their sponsor. A child would love a gift of sponsorship of these two great friends.

For more information about CHAPS and application procedures for sponsorship call 425-5209 or write to CHAPS, P. O. Box 982, Carmel, 93921.

SAM ENJOYS a run in the pond at his new home in Santa Cruz, but life would be even better with help from a sponsor.

Peninsula Palate

By Wendy Brodie

Vote for the greens Part I

NOW THAT the holidays are over, many people have made New Year resolutions to eat lighter and healthier, ahhh SALADS. The word salad comes from the Latin herba salata which means salted greens. To add a little more salad trivia, historically the dish shows up as early as Imperial Rome with dressings made of oils and vinegars.

Salads are anything but boring rabbit food these days and low calorie to boot. A half cup of lettuce is about 12 calories and most greens, herbs and edible flowers close to the same. However, the dressings make up the difference with most oils being about 100 plus calories per tablespoon. The good news is that vinegars are just about 0 calories. In the last few years we have seen many more varieties of lettuces and greens. Of course, the number one crop in the valley is still the iceberg lettuce, but there is red and green romaine, red and green butter lettuce, red leaf and green leaf lettuce, escarole and endive (which is part of the chicory family), red and green oak leaf lettuce, and a variety called little gem (like a baby romaine from Tanimura & Antle).

Aside from the major lettuce growers a whole cottage industry of salad farms have emerged with the interest in baby lettuces and assorted field greens mixes. Many people attribute this contribution of the contemporary salad to the influence of Alice Waters and her marvelous colorful Chez Panisse creations.

The peninsula has its own local Carmel Valley salad farm by the name of Earthbound started in 1984 by a young enterprising couple,

Drew Goodman and Myra Rubin. At which they produce a number of convenient sized, pre-washed baby leaf and field greens assortments, which can be found in practically all the supermarkets. For the working person or small family these salad mixes are a dream. No longer do you have to buy a head of each lettuce, throwing out the outer leaves, washing, soaking and spinning dry, only to leave the rest of the head too long in the refrigerator.

Even though the winter weather and soil temperatures produce a more limited supply therefore costing some more, the lettuces and greens are said to be hardier, have a more intense flavor and richer more distinctive coloring.

The kaleidoscope of colorful combinations is endless. To packages of baby lettuces try adding edible flowers such as rose petals (home grown, no pesticides), pansies, nasturtiums, chive flowers, violets, lavender, geraniums, scotch broom, borage, marigolds, chrysanthemum petals, squash blossoms just to name a few. The herb additions are endless taste creations like basil, mint, chervil, sorrel, sage, parsley, rosemary and thyme, oregano, lovage, marjoram, dill, cilantro and on and on. Then the greens if they are not already in the mix could be mustard greens, dandelion greens, mache, arugula, beet greens, spinach, watercress, miners lettuce, frisee, mizuna, etc.

To make the salad more of a meal, still light and slimming try adding vegetables or fruits, cooked, meats, poultry or fish, cheeses such as goat, grated hard cheeses, or diced cheeses, nuts plain, roasted or seasoned.

Now comes the challenge of picking and choosing these vast ingredients and combining all the flavors with dressings of oils and vinegars or flavored mayonnaises. Part II of 'Vote for the Greens' I will give you recipes for making your own seasoned oils and flavored vinegars, mayonnaise-based dressings along with a spinach salad called Popeye Salad that won me a trip on the Orient Express.

(Editor's Note: Wendy Brodie, currently executive chef at Rancho San Carlos, has an extensive background as a chef on the peninsula, serving with such establishments as Simpson's, Cambridge Plan International, John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch, Stonepine, and Rio Grill. She is a graduate of the prestigious California Culinary Academy, is a member of the American Culinary Federation, Les Toque's Blanche, Confrerie de la Chaine de Rotisseurs, Knights of the Vine, American Institute of Wine & Food, is a past president of the Monterey Peninsula Chef's Association and was named as that organization's 1982's Chef of the Year. She will offer her culinary wisdom to Carmel Pine Cone readers every other week.)

Great Expectations

IT'S TIME to ring in the new year and the anticipation and expectations that go with it. For us students, seniors especially, it is not only the beginning of a new year, it's the "beginning of the end". We're halfway through the school year — six more months to summer and freedom.

There will be a lot of living and studying packed into the next six months. First semester finals are only a week away, promising to be a challenge to everyone. The Saturday after finals is Winter Ball, an elegant affair for students to indulge themselves in. Juniors begin taking the SAT and Achievement tests now.

We students can breathe a sigh of relief once January has come and gone. February is blessed with two vacation days, making life that much more bearable. Things will begin to get interesting for seniors beginning in February and stretching on through March and April. Colleges will begin letting their prospective students know whether or not they are welcome on their campus.

The month of March seems to sail into the doldrums. Nothing happens in March, except the Sadie Hawkins Dance put on by the sophomore class. Spring fever and senioritis tend to rear their ugly heads around this time.

April tends to be a little more exciting. Spring break sets all of us loose for a week. Fortunately, our springtime vacation falls in the middle of the month, thus breaking it up and making the monotony of May that much shorter.

May isn't altogether that bad. By this time seniors have already decided where they are going to attend college and the juniors are beginning to think of next year and their own college search. May heralds Prom, a formal junior and senior affair, and the senior class trip to Disneyland.

June is by far the best month of the year. For seniors, it is their last month in high school and the happiness and enthusiasm is hard to hide. Juniors are about to become kings (and queens) of the "mountain." Sophomores become one step closer to senior-hood. Freshmen become sophomores — a relief in itself. The final finals are taken; graduation is history, and summer is finally here.

Each student will have different expectations for the second half of the school year. So take out the old and bring in the new; we students have a lot of living to do!

Golf & Travel

By Ray A. March

Editor's note: Ray A. March of Carmel Valley is the author of California Golf (Foghorn Press, San Francisco), a comprehensive guide to the state's golf courses, and the forthcoming A Paradise Called Pebble Beach (Golf Digest), a history of Pebble Beach. He is a frequent contributor to the Robb Report.

Golf Hawaii Style

THEY'RE ALWAYS doing things differently in Hawaii. Even something as traditional as golf.

The newest innovation, and one that holds lots of promise as a rewarding trip, is a golf clinic and tournament offered in April by American Hawaii Cruises.

This is a week-long tournament and cruise for golfers of all levels. The package, which runs from April 25 to May 2, includes golf on Oahu, Kauai, the Big Island of Hawaii and Maui, plus an additional two-night stay on Oahu.

The golf tournament will be conducted on shore.

naturally, at top-of-the-line courses, while golf clinics will be held on board -- either the SS Independence or the SS Constitution (details to be announced). Golf pros and celebrities are part of the deal and an informative session on playing golf in Hawaii will be made by George Fuller, author of Hawaii Golf.

Hawaii Golf is a much needed guide to all the golf courses on all the islands, including two of the most recent additions, Experience at Koele and Cavendish, both on Lanai. There's never been a comprehensive guide to Hawaii's golf courses before Hawaii Golf. The book is a captivating foreteller of tips, hints, golf course descriptions and local secrets. Cruising golfers will undoubtedly find Fuller's insights to be fresh and exclusive.

Just bring golf clubs, the tournament and clinics will take care of your game. At the end of the week-long cruise, an on board awards ceremony will be held and prizes given out. Considering we are all trying to perfect the perfect swing, let's hope there's one for "Most Improved Player."

More on American Hawaii's golf cruise, including package prices and participants as the information arrives, but mark the calendar for April 25.

More On Hawaii

While on the subject, pick up a copy of Rick Carroll's Great Outdoor Adventures of Hawaii. This book says it all -- from true- to-life urban adventures on Oahu to helicopter rides (which we highly recommend) to nude beaches to Molokai's wild Kamakou Preserve.

Carroll (readers may remember his days with the S.F. Chronicle) doesn't hold anything back. In fact, he even tells of adventures usually reserved for the locals. He's a writer who really has won awards and his book reflects his wit, easy writing style and knowledge of the islands.

Hawaii Postscript

If hopping around the islands has been a financial problem, worry no more. Aloha Airlines has a package fare for unlimited travel. It's called "Island Hopper," no less, and the price is $129 for five days of island skimming.

There's only one catch: Passengers must hold a valid trans-Pacific ticket to Hawaii with an originating city in North America.

Travel itineraries must be established and reservations for travel must be made in advance through a travel agent or directly with Aloha's reservations center. That means most of us. Check with your travel agent for more details.

Scoop Du Jour

You read it here first, if our timing is right.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson will be co-chairmen of the 1992 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach this June. This is more than a symbolic gesture; it's an important departure from the past.

As we know, the U.S. Open has been played at Pebble twice.

In 1972 J. Arch Butts, Jr. was general chairman. In 1982 the co-chairs were Darius Keaton and Leonard Firestone. Honorary chairman was former President Gerald Ford. Whatever their contributions to the game, and in one or two cases we could list notable samples, these men weren't the great golfers of this country.

Nicklaus and Watson are. Especially at Pebble. Who else but Nicklaus has won both the U.S. Amateur Championship and the U.S. Open at the same course? Pebble Beach, of course. And who else but Watson was there when history said it was time for a new champ?

Why Watson at the 17th, of course.

Both Nicklaus and Watson will be playing in the 1992 U.S. Open. If you are a long shot bettor, they would make a super daily double. Even if they don't come close one thing is certain: If past U.S. Opens at Pebble paid their dues to a quarter outside the player's circle, this year the U.S. Open is right on target.

THE COMPLETE GUIDE HAWAII GOLF

Room With A View

Did everyone catch Ted Streshinsky's photograph in Centle Nast's December issue? It was a shot of the S.F.-Oakland Bay Bridge from Room 822 of the Harbor Court Hotel.

We can vouch for the view, although from a different floor.

The rooms are small and comfortable (one might call them cozy) and the view is gigantic. The Harbor Court is particularly convenient to the Rincon Annex district. After the view try Asta's weekend supper club, Etrusca, for upscale Italian, or for a younger generation in full swing, Harry Denton's. Check out Harry's restrooms.

Now, for a shot from Suite 105-106 at The Lodge at Pebble Beach. You guess the view.

There's More Than Golf?

Yes, and in the course of keeping things balanced here's a run down on romantic packages at various hotels. Valentine's Day is coming up, right? And this is Leap Year, right? Check these out:

Monticello Inn, off Union Square -- This San Francisco boutique hotel is celebrating Leap Year all year with a "Romance Rate" of $129, which includes complimentary champagne on arrival, chocolates in the room and bottles of silky bubble bath. Also, late check out. Call (415) 392-8800.

Rancho Valencia -- Not far from La Jolla and where the turf meets the surf at Del Mar, this 40-acre resort sports suites or individual casitas during its 1992 "Romantic Getaway." A two-day, one-night escape is $595 a couple and includes -- get this -- a luxury casita, champagne and caviar potato chips, candlelight dinner by the fire-side or private terrace, a half-hour massage for each person, chocolate-dipped strawberries and Swiss herbal water at turndown and room service breakfast. Whew.

FIRST ASSEMBLY

Father Farrell's Wisdom

'To fight the good fight'

ST. TIMOTHY was the first Bishop of Ephesus in Asia Minor, now part of Turkey. He was the most beloved and trusted disciple of St. Paul of Tarsus. When he was a young man, Paul wrote him this advice: "Stop drinking water only and use a little wine for your stomach's sake and your frequent illnesses."

In the same series of letters, he warns Timothy against being a drinker and a brawler and not to be "double tongued and given to much wine." St. Paul, like most good men, was not a fanatic. He thought that "in vin media stat virtus" ("In the middle way lies virtue"). He exhorted Timothy to be moderate but not stuffy—to pursue the good life with love, patience and mildness.

Oh Lord, help us to follow Paul's advice, to fight the good fight. May we refrain from counting days but make each day count. Finally, in a Santa Fe, N.M. paper I read this filler. Little Panchito asked, "Mamacita, do men get to heaven? I have never seen a picture of an angel with a beard."

"Si, Panchito, some men get to heaven but only by a close shave."

Spiritual discussions offered

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The National Institute on Aging (NIA) is planning a study of why certain people start new careers instead of retiring. The study will focus on men and women 51 and over who begin collecting pensions but start new, self-employed careers. Until now, most research into retirement subjects has ignored the self-employed. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor statistics, about 11 percent of those age 55 to 64 and more than 23 percent of those 65 or over are self-employed. The study, which will go on for 12 years, will cover both those who have always been self-employed and those who become self-employed after retiring from fulltime jobs.

Before the weekly Saturday night bridge tournament at a club in Hartsdale, New York, there was a brief announcement and then a cake was wheeled in to celebrate the 90th birthday of one of the competitors—Carl Perleoni. His bridge partner is wife Josephine, age 89.

Remember when? December 25, 1926—Prince Hirohito was enthroned as emperor of Japan.

Mysterious' women featured at Harrison Library authors' event

Murder, mayhem, and mystery will be in the air Friday night at 8 when Harrison Memorial Library hosts "Authors-by-the-Sea," an evening of discussion by world-famous mystery writers Susan Dunlap and Linda Grant.

LINDA GRANT

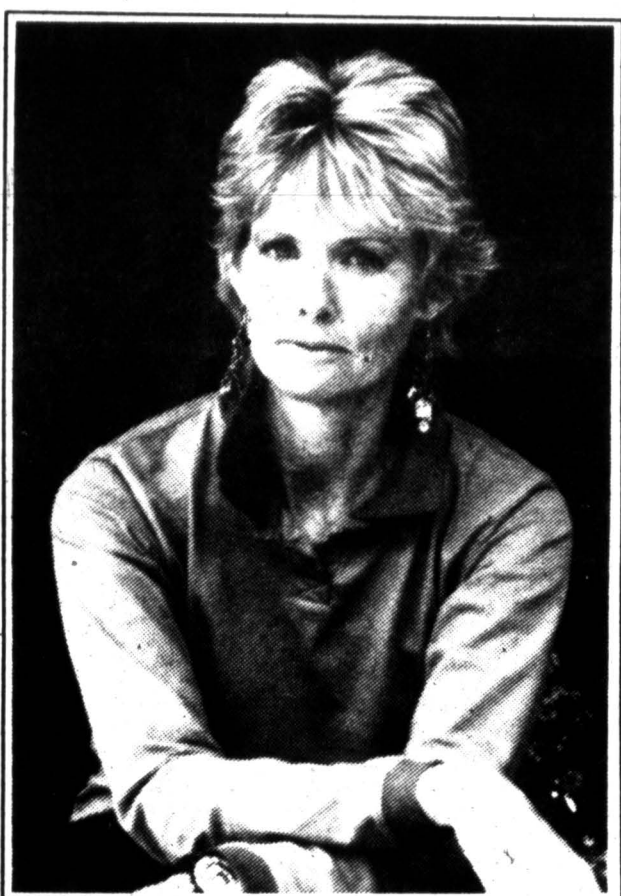

Part of the mystery might be: Where else can $12—the price of each ticket for the event—buy so much? In addition to allowing ticket-buyers the chance to hear about the art of writing and meet two very popular authors, all of that $12 from each ticket will go toward purchasing books for the library, which has been hard-hit by reductions in funding from Monterey County.

Tickets must be purchased before Friday evening and are available at the library circulation desk.

Residents of the San Francisco Bay Area, Dunlap and Grant have both been nominated for Anthony Awards and are members of "Sisters in Crime," an international organization committed to increasing the awareness of women in the field of crime writing and to a continuing study of violence against women in crime fiction.

Dunlap, author of "Not Exactly a Brahmin," "Diamond in the Buff," and "Rogue Wave," as well as eight other mystery novels, was nominated for an Anthony

Award for her short story, "Celestial Buffet."

Also an Anthony Award nominee, Linda Grant has written "Blind Trust," "Love Nor Money," and "Random Access Murder," all featuring her sleuth, Inspector Catherine Saylor, who has been called, "a thinking woman's detective." Grant and Dunlap will donate their time to appear at HML. Their lodging will be generously supplied by "Holiday House of Carmel." Light refreshments prepared by the library staff will be served following the discussion.

THE SECOND Tuesday Film Fest at the Sunset Center in Carmel will show the 1960 classic "Psycho."

Second Tuesday Film Fest will screen Hitchcock's classic 'Psycho'

THE 1991-92 Second Tuesday Film Fest continues at the Sunset Center in Carmel on Tuesday, Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. with a screening of the 1960 classic "Psycho." Starring Anthony Perkins, Vera Miles and Janet Leigh, this famous chiller was directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

Initially received by most critics as a remarkable horror piece, this curious shocker by Hitchcock has achieved classic status over the years. The famous shower murder sequence (using chocolate sauce, Hitchcock reassured viewers later) was one of his most memorable moments.

Tickets are $2.50 and available at the door beginning at 7 p.m.

For more information please call 624-3996

The remaining schedule for the Second Tuesday Film Fest follows:

"Casablanca," Tuesday, Feb. 11 at 8 p.m. Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, Paul Henreid (1943)

"Bronco Billy," Tuesday, March 10 at 8 p.m. Clint Eastwood, director; Clint Eastwood, Sondra Locke, Scatman Crothers (1980)

"Mutiny on the Bounty," Tuesday, April 14 at 8 p.m. Charles Laughton, Clark Gable, Franchot Tone (1935)

"Slaughterhouse Five," Tuesday, May 12 at 8 p.m. Michael Sacks, Ron Leibman, Valerie Perrin (1972)

"Harold and Maude," Tuesday, June 9 at 8 p.m. Ruth Gordon (1971)

THE AMES Piano Quartet will perform at the Sunset Center Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel, on Friday, Jan. 10, at 8 p.m. Presented by The Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula.

Renowned Ames Piano Quartet will perform at Sunset Center

THE AMES Piano Quartet will perform at the Sunset Center Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel, on Friday, Jan. 10, at 8 p.m.

The Concert is presented by The Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula. Members of the quartet are William David, Piano; Mahlon Darlington, Violin; Laurence Burkhalter, Viola; and George Work, Cello.

They will play Beethoven's Quartet in E-flat Major, Opus 16; Schuller's On Light Wings; and Dvorak's Quartet in E-flat Major, Opus 87.

The Ames Quartet occupies a unique position in the chamber music field as one of the few piano quartets in the world. Since its formation in 1976, the Ames has been in residence at Iowa State University where each member has gained a reputation as a master music teacher.

The philosophy of the ensemble is well stated by Mahlon Darlington, "In some ways we are ambassadors of the school. We teach and we are performing musicians. Other departments gain prestige when their professors write and present papers. Our performing overlaps that function."

The Ames Piano Quartet has earned prestige in the chamber music field. During the past year it has toured in France, Mexico, and the United States including concerts in Los Angeles, San Diego, and Wolf Trap. Performances have been greeted with acclaim wherever the Ames has played.

Its musical eloquence is well illustrated by a review in the La Cote des Arts of France, "The Ames Quartet has a full vigorous sound which deeply touches the soul." The Los Angeles Times wrote of a recent concert, "The four generated nearly limitless excitement...arching lyricism, poetic eloquence and great accuracy." The Washington Post stated that, "The Ames Piano Quartet imparted a consistently warm sound, with excellent overall balance, to works by these three composers." (Beethoven, Brahms, and Walton)

The Ames has received additional recognition attesting to its excellence. It has received many state art-council grants and grants from the National Endowment of the Arts.

Ames' concerts have been heard on National Public Radio and Nebraska Public Television. Dorian Recordings has recently released a third compact disc recorded by the Ames Quartet. The recording of the Dvorak Quartets has had universal acclaim. Fanfare called it, "One of the best chamber music recordings of the century."

Single tickets are $14 at the door before the concert ($5 for those under 21). For further information please call 625-2212.

Reggae got soul

AFTER LYING dormant for several years on this side of the bay (come to think of it, maybe it wasn't that active at all), reggae has exploded on the Monterey Peninsula music scene.

Thanks to the ubiquity and popularity of the home-grown Jonah & The Whale Watchers (based in Carmel of all places), reggae, that pulsating, infectious music from the Caribbean, has made major inroads here. Over in Santa Cruz, of course, reggae has been the musical style of choice; in fact Santa Cruz may just be the reggae capital of California, not only for featuring big-name out-of-town reggae bands on a regular basis, but for growing and nurturing their own.

Now, albeit a tad late, this area is finally catching a fire with reggae. In addition to Jonah & The Whale Watchers' regular gigs in the area, Shanty Malone's in Carmel Valley is bringing in Sonoma-based Strictly Roots at 9 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 11, while The Club in Monterey showcases Midas & The Bridge for a rare live music night Thursday, Jan. 16 (door at 8 p.m., show at 9:30).

Strictly Roots recently finished a tour in which they opened in Reno for perhaps the top reggae band extant, Ziggy Marley and the Melody Makers, while San Francisco's BAM magazine described them in this fashion: "For reggae pure and simple. Strictly Roots does their name justice, and then some." Tickets are $10 At the door, with Jonah & the boys opening the show at 8 p.m. (Shanty Malone's is located in the Valley Hills Center, 3.5 miles east of Highway 1 off Carmel Valley Road.) Info's at 626-0604.

Midas & The Bridge in the meantime is promoting its first domestic release Stand Up Wise Up, while working on a new recording to be released this spring. The veteran Jamaican-born artist has been performing and touring since the late '60s and has a variety of recordings under his belt, including a few featuring reggae stars such as Sly Dunbar, Robbie Shakespeare, Marcia Griffiths and Leroy "Horsemouth" Wallace.

Ras Midas, who was once dubbed "The James Brown of reggae" because of his frenetic shows, describes his music as "fusion World Beat reggae," a combination of rock, jazz and reggae with a message.

"In my music I see a better world, that's why my band's name is The Bridge," he says, "...to bridge the distances between our cultures."

Tickets for the show are available at The Club or at all BASS/TM ticket outlets (Wherehouse on the Monterey Peninsula).

UPCOMING EVENTS with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

- Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row continues its mixture of local bands and nationally known rock, jazz, R&B and blues acts.

Tonight the venue has Mickey Thomas and the Soulful Twilights. Thomas is the former lead singer for Jefferson Starship, then Starship, singing on hits such as We Built This City, Sara, Find Your Way Back, Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now, Jane, and It's Not Over Till It's Over, as well as singing lead vocals on Elvin Bishop's Top 10 hit, Fooled Around and Fell in Love. Thomas' band features a handful of Bay Area musical stalwarts, including former members of Tower of Power, Cold Blood, Sly & the Family Stone, Billy Preston and Todd Rundgren. The show will feature selections from Thomas' career, from Elvin Bishop to Starship.

Doc's will also feature the return of the Forbidden Pigs, a wild roots-rock band that brings to mind a humorous version of The Paladins, Monday, Jan. 13. Although not very well known, The Pigs have developed a rabid cult following here for their manic shows. Amust see.

Other acts slated for the coming weeks include soulful bluesman Joe Louis Walker & the Boss Talkers Jan. 20; Anson Funderburgh & The Rockets (featuring Sammy Myers) Jan. 27; the return of popular '60s rock band, Spirit in a "recession-busting" show costing only $4.99 at the door, Jan. 30; Kenny Rankin Feb. 4; Randy Hansen (and a tribute to The Doors band), Feb. 6; Bobby Kimball Feb. 13; John Mayall & The Bluesbreakers Feb. 17; and Robben Ford, who had to postpone last time out in December due to jet lag, on Feb. 24.

Info on all shows can be had by calling 649-4241.

MICKEY THOMAS, former vocalist for Starship on hits such as We Built This City, Sara, and Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now, plays Doc Ricketts' Lab tonight, Thursday, Jan. 9.

- Portofino Cafe will feature folksinger/songwriter Bob Franke from New England, at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 10, followed the next night by traditional Irish music from Timothy Britton and Carol Ann Hunner, a master of the Uilleann (Irish bagpipes), and singer/songwriter, respectively. A must for Celtophiles. Tickets are $8.

For reservations or further information about the concert, call 373-7379.

- The aforementioned Jonah and the Whale Watchers continue to play the Monterey Brewing Company every Wednesday. They'll also be playing Shanty Malone's Fridays. If you like roots reggae, these are the places to be every Wednesday and Friday night. And here's good news for all Jonah

New celebrities head field at '92 AT&T Pebble Beach

THE AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am has announced an outstanding field of contestants for the 1992 tournament, slated for Jan. 27 to Feb. 2.

Newcomers this year will include Grammy Award-winning singer John Denver, Garfield creator Jim Davis, and Jason Bateman, star of the popular television series Hogan Family.

They will join many returning celebrity favorites as well as top golfers on the PGA Tour who will be competing for a share of the $1.1 million purse. Last year's top prize of $198,000 was won by pro golfer Paul Azinger, who shot 67-67-73-64 for a combined total of 274 over four days of play on Pebble Beach, Poppy Hills and Spyglass Hill golf courses.

Among the returning celebrities scheduled to compete in the 1992 tournament are perennial crowd favorites Jack Lemmon, Clint Eastwood, Tommy Smothers, Mark McGwire, Danny Sullivan, Glen Campbell, Craig T. Nelson, Vic Damone, Kevin Dobson, Julius Erving, the Gatlin Brothers, and Jack Wagner, winner of last year's pro-am division.

Advance tickets are available through the tournament office at (800) 541-9091, or BASS/TM at 998-BASS.

SUPERB POET William Stafford will kick off Monterey Peninsula College's Spring Reading Series. Oregon poet laureate and longtime master teacher at Lewis and Clark College, Stafford will read from his works Saturday evening (1/11) in MPC Lecture Forum 103.

The occasion starts at eight o'clock. Tickets will be sold at the door ($6 per). Coordinator: Elliot Roberts of the MPC English Department.

Carmel's Harrison Memorial Library slates another Authors-by-the-Sea program Friday night (1/10) at eight. Susan Dunlap and Linda Grant, women writing about women who solve crimes, will appear. Both have been nominated for Anthony Awards (mystery fiction); both have won great popularity with Harrison Library readers.

All proceeds from the series aid the Harrison book budget. Writers donate their time. Tickets ($12 each) may be bought in advance at the circulation desk. Only 80 will be sold.

Light refreshments will be served. Library staffers provide these goodies.

Newsbreak right at deadline: Susan Dunlap and Linda Grant will take part Saturday (1/11) in a book signing at Carmel Book Emporium on Lobos Lane in The Crossroads. The special event will be held from 11 a.m. till 2 p.m. "We have many of their titles," said an Emporium spokesperson. "It'll be quite a session." National Writers Union will hold another of its poetry readings at Barbara Murphy's Portofino Coffee House in Pacific Grove. It's set Wednesday evening (1/15) at eight. Just $3 per at the door.

Strong lineup — Carmel haiku poet Lequita Vance Watkins, MPC poet and novelist Nancy Reeve-Wilson, Watsonville writer and small press publisher Candida Lawrence.

Pilgrim's Way Bookstore of Carmel offers yet another public program on Wednesday evening (1/15) — Dr. James Wanless talking about the Tarot Cards. Starts at seven o'clock; $5 per.

SAN FRANCISCO may not be the literary cookpot it once was — I grew up in the North Beach of Ginsberg, Kerouac, Snyder, Lamantia, McClure, Brother Antoninus, so on — but the new series assembled by Sydney Goldstein of City Arts and Lectures looks like a winner.

Events benefit the Woman's Foundation, which funds programs for "low-income women and girls," and will be at Herbst Theater with a uniform start time of eight o'clock. Ticket info: (415) 392-4400. The schedule:

• Tuesday, Jan. 21 — novelist Fay Weldon in conversation with media man Sedge Thomson.

• Thursday, Feb. 13 — Gloria Steinem considering Revolution from Within.

• Wednesday, Feb. 26 — performance artist Reno "in conversation with Reno."

• Wednesday, March 4 — Mary Gordon in conversation with Louise Lo.

• Tuesday, March 17 — poet and essayist June Jordan. Introduced by Angela Davis.

• Wednesday, April 1 — Linda Ellerbee in conversation with Barbara Lane.

• Thursday, April 30 — Annie Dillard. At her best, she's radiant and absolutely necessary.

• Tuesday, May 5 — Susan Sontag. AIDS and Its Metaphors and The Way We Live Now. Work in progress: The Volcano Lover.

• Monday, May 11 — Carolyn Heilbrun (aka Amanda Cross).

• Writer and storyteller Spalding Gray.

• Wednesday, April 22 — magical Claire Bloom. Presenting "more portraits of Shakespeare's women."

SHE WAS a writer and the only woman who fought in the Spanish Civil War alongside other American volunteers. Marion Marriman Wachtel passed away recently at her Palo Alto home. She died in her sleep. Age 82.

Jazz Tides

By John Detro

Renewed action

FOLLOWING THE annual holiday slowdown, jazz bookers stand ready today for renewed action of attractive sorts.

The bright series at Hidden Valley Music Seminars cranks up again Friday night (1/10) with the Claudia Gomez Quintet.

Claudia's a South American singer who always works with superb musicians. You can expect a warm evening—tunes that express Afro-Cuban influences as well as Brazilian lores. Her pianist will be none other than the tremendously inventive Marcos Silva.

First set starts at eight o'clock. Tickets ($12.50 per) may be bought at the box office half an hour before then. Snacks will be available; wine-lovers were invited to bring their own.

Coming up within the same space — Dave Frishberg (1/17), Steve Erquiaga Quintet (1/24), Brazilian guitar master Carlos Barbose-Lima (2/7).

THE SUNDAY afternoon jazz star at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row (1/12) will be flugelhornist Oscar Williams. When he played the same stage some weeks ago, Oscar joined the series house quartet of saxist John Cortes for some treatments that were magical — far beyond what we usually hear on this side of Monterey Bay. (These gatherings run from two till six o'clock. No cover; no minimum.)

A jazz educator who lives in San Jose, Oscar toured with Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers when Branford Marsalis played alto and James Williams was the pianist. Oscar also has worked with Joe Henderson, Cab Calloway, Eddie Harris, Mel Martin, Kitty Margolis, Ed Kelly, on and on.

Don't miss this man. He inspires not only bandmates, but the entire room. He's the only flugelhorn player I've ever heard who conceives and then executes like a straight-ahead, fiery tenorist.

There again will be the free raffle of a new CD contributed by the Windham Hill Jazz label. Ticket-holders may contribute to Youth Music Monterey if they so desire.

Next up (1/19) — Mellow jazz vocalist Lee Durley.

BRANFORD GOT the job as Jay Leno's TV bandleader. That may be why Kenny Kirkland cancelled a Monday night appearance at Kuumbwa Jazz Center in Santa Cruz. Speaking of the new aggregation, Marsalis said on National Public Radio that Kenny was his keyboardist of choice. It could be that they're already in rehearsal for when Leno takes the reins from Johnny Carson.

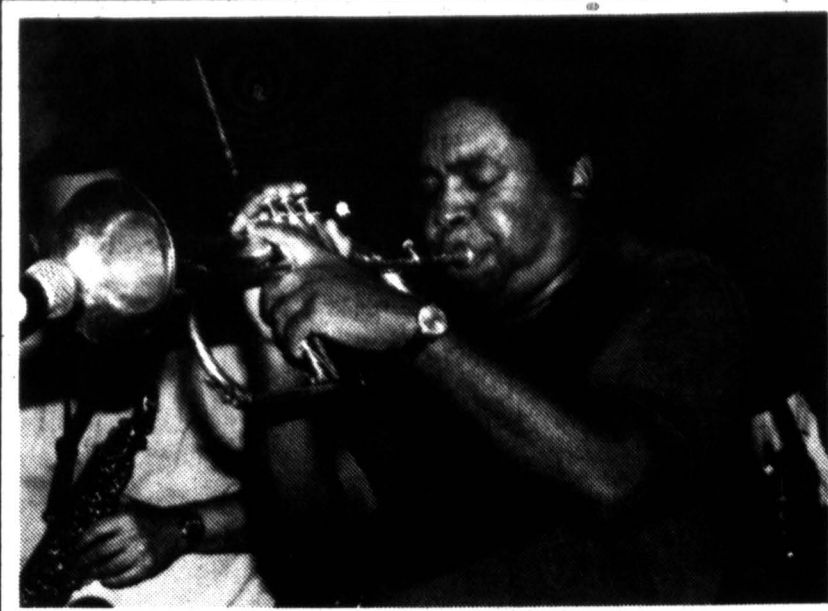

Instead (1/13), the group fronted by ever-classy guitarist Jim Hall will be there. Shows at 7:30 and 9:30. It's $13 advance (via the usual Ticketmaster outlets) or $15 per at the door.

Future file: Astrud Gilberto (1/20), Elvin Jones Jazz Machine with Sonny Fortune and John's son Ravi Coltrane on saxes (1/27), Joe Pass plus the trio of fine pianist Jessica Williams (2/3), Mingus Dynasty with Jack Walrath and George Adams as well as Victor Lewis and this area's own Ray Drummond (2/10), Peter Apfelbaum and the Hieroglyphics Ensemble (2/17), hot young trumpeter Roy Hargrove (2/24).

SAN FRANCISCO columnist Noah Griffin's an African American. He wrote recently: "Michael Jordan smiles. Spike Lee doesn't. Louis Armstrong smiled. Miles Davis didn't...It's a shame to have to be sensitive to what a simple thing like a smile can mean at the wrong time in the wrong place with the wrong people...That smile may mask a whole world of hurt, pain and anger you can't begin to fathom."

Those words seem appropriate as UC/Santa Cruz announces this: brilliant young choreographer Donald Byrd will bring his troupe there later this month (1/18) and present a "witty and provocative new piece (which) examines the role that stereotyping plays in strengthening racial prejudice." The jazz-influenced Byrd's work will show audience members why black musicians choose certain public postures so carefully.

The title reflects Byrd's boldness — The Minstrel Show: Acts for Coons, Jigaboos and Jungle Bunnies. Start time will be eight o'clock on that Saturday night at the FLUGELHORN STAR Oscar Williams returns to the Sunday Afternoon Jazz Series (1/12) at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row. He has worked with Art Blakey, Cab Calloway. (Will Wallace photo.)

Performing Arts Theater. Ticket info may be had via 1-459-2159.

Byrd's 10 dancers integrate black vernacular dancing with classical ballet and modern techniques. The Minstrel Show began as a student production by Byrd at UC/Santa Cruz (1985). Now evolved to full length, it premiered in New York last month to rave reviews.

Says the announcement: "Through variety and farce, eccentric specialty dances, stunts, jokes, skits, instrumental solos and ballads, this choreography presents minstrelsy as a barometer of the social/racial tensions of the day, and seduces (viewers) into confronting these disturbing issues."

Historically, minstrel shows were a virtual white monopoly with male performers "blackened up" in supposedly comic caricature. "Later," the source material says, "blacks were forced to ridicule their own physical features by performing in makeup."

Byrd's new version will be done by an interracial company in blackface. He: "I'd like (the audience) to go through the whole experience I went through in the process of researching this piece. I felt a lot of anger...frustration. I cried, I laughed, and at the end I felt more conscious. I think the best way to deal with something that's painful is by laughing at it."

When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet

For its winter production, The Carmel High School

Drama Department presents, When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet, by Charles George, and directed by Thomas Clifford, opening Thursday, Jan. 9 at the high school.

The one-act play, produced in conjunction with a dance recital by the Carmel High School Dance Ensemble, focuses on six of Shakespeare's most noted heroines convening at the home of Juliet in Verona. They are, in addition to Juliet, Portia from The Merchant of Venice, Katharine from The Taming of the Shrew, Desdemona from Othello, Ophelia from Hamlet, and Cleopatra from Antony and Cleopatra.

Juliet has just fallen in love with Romeo and the other five visit her to instruct her in the art of successfully carrying out her romance. Portia's advice is very legal. Katharine is present to inform Juliet that the ways of the shrew bring results. Desdemona has her tale to tell about how Othello just "smothers" her with affection. Ophelia is as off-center as a March hare, and the siren, Cleopatra, imparts her methods of obtaining the brave Antony. In the end, however, they find that Juliet can give them all lessons in love, despite her extreme youth.

Clifford's sophomore year as the Drama Department's solo director will prove to be a successful one. Last spring's production, The Dining Room, which was also directed by Clifford, proved to be worthy, just as this production will.

When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet, starring Desiree Castro, Linnea Estes, Jessica Hanna, Elizabeth Hill, Erin Johnson, and Sara McPhee will play on Jan. 9, 10, and 11, at 8 p.m. at Carmel High School in room 2. For additional information, call Tom Clifford at 624-1821.
